

PUBLIC INTERNET USE POLICY

Adopted June 28, 2022

Reviewed June 23, 2026

The Lawrenceburg Public Library District (LPLD) offers public access to the Internet and other electronic resources via personal computers and other internet devices (PCs) to support its mission and meet the needs of its users.

To maintain compliance with the Children’s Internet Protection Act (CIPA), LPLD employs filters on its Internet connections. LPLD cannot monitor, maintain control over, or otherwise censor the information available over the Internet through its PCs. Individuals should be aware that it is possible to access material which they may find inappropriate or offensive. Users should also be aware that not all sources on the Internet are accurate, complete, or current. As with other information resources offered by the library, parents are solely responsible for supervising their children's access.

APPROPRIATE USE

Appropriate Use prohibits using LPLD PCs to access or display obscene, pornographic, or illegal materials. Use of PCs to harass others, violate copyright law, obtain illegal copies of materials, modify data, access passwords of other users, misrepresent other users, or disclose, use, or disseminate personal information of minors is illegal and is prohibited. Attempts to damage, sabotage, or gain unauthorized access to LPLD systems are also prohibited.

Any violation of the Appropriate Use section of this policy may result in loss of Internet access.

Noncompliance with any portion of the LPLD Public Internet Use Policy is considered a violation of Appropriate Use.

- Illegal use of LPLD PCs will result in permanent revocation of a user’s access privileges, and when discovered will be turned over to appropriate authorities.
- Inappropriate use of LPLD PCs will result in the user’s privileges being revoked for a specified period of time.
 - A first offense will result in the user’s privileges being revoked for a period of two (2) months.
 - A second offense will result in the user’s privileges being revoked for a period of six (6) months.
 - A third offense will result in the user’s privileges being revoked permanently.

WIRELESS NETWORK ACCESS

LPLD provides wireless access to the Internet for customers to use with their personal devices. Users of LPLD's wireless networks are subject to the Appropriate Use section of this policy. Users must be aware that LPLD's wireless networks are for public use and therefore not secure. Users are responsible for installing security and privacy measures on personal devices. LPLD cannot guarantee the privacy or safety of data and communications while using either wired or wireless services; nor can LPLD be responsible for any loss or theft of data due to use of services.

ACCESS BY MINORS

LPLD employs filtering software to restrict minors' access to harmful materials. However, LPLD cannot guarantee that access to all inappropriate material will be blocked.

For the safety and security of minors, LPLD encourages caution when using any form of electronic communication. Parents/guardians are responsible for addressing Internet safety concerns with their minor children.

Children under the age of 18 may use publicly available PCs throughout the library provided that they are complying with the LPLD Customer Conduct Policy at all times. Parents or guardians wishing to have their child's access monitored or limited must do so by accompanying their children during visits.

Adults over the age of 18 may use Youth Service PCs only when they are assisting or accompanying a child.

STAFF ASSISTANCE

LPLD staff will assist users with PCs to the degree circumstances permit based on capacity and staffing. If greater assistance is necessary, one-on-one tutoring sessions should be scheduled with specially trained staff at a mutually convenient time.

- LPLD staff are able to provide a minimal level of support and are not permitted to make changes to any personal devices.

LPLD, its employees, and the Board of Trustees are not responsible or liable for inaccurate or offensive information or material, nor for any expense incurred while using LPLD wired or wireless Internet connections.

LPLD reserves the right to amend this policy at any time. Changes required by Federal or Indiana State Law will become effective immediately. As required by law IC 36-12-1-12, this policy shall be reviewed annually by the Board of Trustees.
